Acknowledgements

This monograph presents my revised doctoral thesis from the University of Reading, 2021. My utmost gratitude is due to my supervisor, Professor Emma Aston, for her patience, guidance, support and friendship. Her enthusiasm for all matters Thessalian and equine has been inspiring. I am also very grateful to my second supervisor, Professor Rachel Mairs, for her support and helpful feedback. I would like to thank the staff of the Classics Department at Reading, always so generous with their time and knowledge, especially my internal examiner, Professor Ian Rutherford, and also Professor Amy Smith. I must also thank my colleagues at Reading for their support, especially Dr Dania Kamini, and Dr Una Markham, who was an excellent travel companion on our research trips to Greece.

The constructive comments of my external examiner, Simon Glenn, have led to improvements to the original thesis. I must express my gratitude to the late Professor Keith Rutter who was always so generous with his knowledge and advice. Grateful thanks are due to Dr Robin Rönnlund for answering my many questions regarding Thessalian archaeology, and his comments on a draft of Chapter 1. A very big thank you is due to Dr Petr Veselý for reading drafts of the whole work, alerting me to unknown coins, and discussions of equine iconography. I am indebted to Cathy Lorber for her incisive comments on a draft Chapter, and for her support, and not least to Dr Katia Margariti for her friendship, support, and assistance with translations. All remaining errors are my own.

Naturally, I must thank the directors and staff of Thessalian museums: the Diachronic Museum of Larissa, the Athanasakeion Archaeological Museum of Volos, and the Archaeological Museum of Karditsa. I am extremely grateful to the Heberden Coin Room at the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford, for access to their collection of Thessalian coins. I must also thank Dr Adrian Popescu of the Fitzwilliam Museum, and the Curator of Ancient Collections at the British Museum for access to their collections. Thanks also to Dr Yannis Stoyas, for providing images from the K.I.K.P.E. Collection of bronze coinage at Athens. I am also grateful to the Münzkabinett der Staatlichen Museen zu Berlin, the American Numismatic Society, the Bibliothèque National de France, Musée du Louvre, the Winterthur Museum, the Carlsberg Ny Glyptotek, Copenhagen and the Acropolis Museum, Athens for providing images of numismatic and other material. I would also like to thank the various auction houses for permission to reproduce their images: the Classical Numismatic Group, Nomos AG, Bruun Rasmussen, Gorny and Mosch Giessener Münzhandlung, Numismatica Ars Classica, Leu Numismatik, and Numismatik Naumann. Many thanks to Dr Gabriel Moss of the Ancient World Mapping Center for preparing the maps. Special thanks also to Rosemary Aston for her drawings of Ennodia, and to equestrian artist Peter Bainbridge for his drawings.

Research libraries have been integral to this work, particularly the Hellenic and Roman Library, London, the Sackler Library, Oxford, and also the libraries of the British School at Athens and the American School of Classical Studies at Athens.

A very big thank you to the editorial team at Archaeopress, particularly Mike Schurer, Robin Orlić and Ben Heaney.

Family and friends have been an important part of the journey. My good friend Annie Heroys has accompanied me on many trips to Greece, and I must gratefully acknowledge her patience while I examined coins and other artefacts in Greek museums. Not least, I owe so much to my equine friends over many years. Finally, I would like to acknowledge the support and encouragement of my family. Sadly, my late father Paddy, is unable to witness this publication, and also my grandfather Hal, whose love of classics inspired me from a young age; it is to them that I dedicate this book.
