Guidelines and Transliteration

Guidelines for Authors

For details on the submission of papers and the preparation of papers for publication, authors are requested to consult and follow the latest Guidelines for Authors. These are available on the International Association for the Study of Arabia website at <https://www.theiasa.com/seminar/publication/>. Please contact the editors on <https://www.theiasa.com/seminar/publication/> for further information.

Fonts

Electronic versions of papers being submitted for publication should be set in Times New Roman 12-point typeface if at all possible, with double-line spacing on A4-paper size and 2.45 cm margins all round.

The IASA System of Transliteration of Relevant Characters

Quotations, single words, and phrases from Arabic or other languages written in non-Roman alphabets, are transliterated according to the systems set out below.

- We firmly encourage authors to use the correctly transliterated form of any place name, but the names used for types of pottery, archaeological periods, and cultures which have become archaeological standards should be used in that form: Umm an-Nar, Julfar ware, etc. If any place name needs to be given in a non-standard format, the correctly transliterated form should be added in the first instance in any paper (see Guidelines for Authors for more details).
- Personal names, toponyms, and other words that have entered English or French in a particular form, should be used in that form when they occur in an English or French sentence, unless they are part of a quotation in the original language, or of a correctly transliterated name or phrase. In the latter cases, they should be correctly transliterated, even when they occur in an English or French sentence.

1. Arabic

ء M	ج j	ذ dh (dh)	ش sh (sh)	ظ ẓ	ق q	ن n
ب b	ح ḥ	ر r	ص ṣ	ع ʿ	ك k	ه h
ت t	خ kh (kh)	ز z	ض ḍ	غ gh (gh)	ل l	و w
ث th (th)	د d	س s	ط ṭ	ف f	م m	ي y
Vowels	a i u ā ī ū	Diphthongs	aw ay

The underlined variants can be used to avoid any ambiguity, e.g. lam yushir vs. lam yushir.

Initial hamzah is omitted.

Alif maqṣūrah is transliterated as ā.

The lām of the article is not assimilated before the ‘sun letters’, thus the form should be al-shams but not ash-shams.

The hamzat al-waṣl of the article should be shown after vowels except after the preposition li-, as in the Arabic script, e.g. wa-^ll-wazīr, f^ll-bayt, but li-l-wazīr.

Tāʾ marbūṭah (ة) should be rendered -ah, except in a construct: e.g. birkah, zakāh, and birkat al-sibāḥah, zakāt al-ḥiṭr.

2. Persian, Urdu, and Ottoman Turkish

Please transliterate these languages using the system set out for Arabic above with the additional letters transliterated according to the system in the Encyclopaedia of Islam (<http://referenceworks.brillonline.com/entries/encyclopaedia-islamica/system-of-transliteration-of-arabic-and-persian-characters-transliteration>) except that ž is used instead of zh. There is a useful table to convert Ottoman Turkish to modern Turkish characters on http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ottoman_Turkish_language.

3. Ancient North and South Arabian Consonants:

ʾ b t ṭ ḥ g ḥ d ḏ r z s¹ s² s³ š
ḏ ṭ z ʿ ḡ f q k l m n h w y

4. Other Semitic languages

Please use the transliteration systems outlined in the Bulletin of the American Schools of Oriental Research (BASOR) 262 (1986), p. 3. (www.jstor.org/stable/i258780).

Editors' Foreword

The Seminar for Arabian Studies is the longest-running academic forum for the presentation of research on the cultural and natural heritage of the Arabian Peninsula. Since its first meeting in 1968, the Seminar has covered a wide range of subjects including archaeology, epigraphy, history, ethnography, art, architecture, linguistics, and literature from prehistory to the present. Since 2019 the Seminar has changed from being a British-based forum to an international setting, starting with a meeting in the University of Leiden and continuing with other European institutions.

The 56th Seminar in Aarhus in 2023 was a special one, as it marked the 70th anniversary of the first Danish archaeological expedition to Bahrain led by T. Geoffrey Bibby and P.V. Glob, from the Prehistoric Museum of Moesgaard. This is justly considered the starting point of archaeological research on Arabia, as it was the first time that formal excavations were undertaken in the region. A celebration of this pioneering achievement was in order and the members of the Steering Committee were therefore very pleased to support Steffen Terp Laursen when he proposed Aarhus as the venue, under the joint umbrella of the Moesgaard Museum and the University of Aarhus.

The Moesgaard Museum and the University of Aarhus, as well as the beautiful city itself, formed a welcoming venue. The meeting consisted of 76 papers organized into seven sessions, as well as 18 posters. There was one Special Session, entitled The Bronze Age, 70 years on... What we have learned and what we still don't know, organized by Steffen Terp Laursen and Derek Kennet (the publication of which is being prepared as a monograph to be published by Brill). The Seminar also included a celebration of the pioneers of Arabian archaeology, many of whom attended the reception, and the Society of Antiquaries of London, Beatrice De Cardi Public Keynote Lecture by Professor Adrian Parker, entitled Arabian Palaeoenvironments and climate change during the Arabian Bronze Age (3500–1000 BC). Both events were held in the Moesgaard Museum. Overall, the 56th Seminar was an excellent meeting and our acknowledgement goes to Steffen and the organizing team at Aarhus for making it such a success.

This volume of the Proceedings of the Seminar for Arabian Studies includes 21 papers presented in the ordinary sessions held at Aarhus. Our thanks go to all the authors who submitted papers and to the anonymous reviewers who contributed to the academic robustness of the end result. The publication of the volume within a year of the event itself is possible thanks to the efforts of a team which includes the Editor Matthew Johnson and the Assistant Editors Abigail Buffington, Silvia Lischi, Michael Macdonald, Orhan Elmaz, Janet Watson, and the two signatories of this text. We are also thankful for the support of Patrick Harris and Erin McGowan, the dedicated Archaeopress team, who worked hard to facilitate timely publication. Finally, we wish to thank Helen Knox, our copy-editor, whose indefatigable work and exceptional efforts have helped to bring this volume to completion.

The Seminar for Arabian Studies and the Proceedings are organized by the Steering Committee of the Seminar for Arabian Studies and the International Foundation for the Study of Arabia (IASA). For additional information on the Seminar, please contact Kate Ayres-Kennet (seminar@theiasa.com). The IASA (formally the British Foundation for the Study of Arabia), is a charitable organization that promotes research on the cultural and natural heritage of the Arabian Peninsula. The IASA produces two annual bulletins. For further information about IASA, please write to contact@theiasa.com or visit the IASA website at www.theiasa.com.

Society of Antiquaries of London, Beatrice de Cardi Keynote Lecture

This year's lecture, entitled Arabian Palaeoenvironments and climate change during the Arabian Bronze Age (3500-1000 BC), was given by Professor Adrian Parker of Oxford Brookes University.

The Beatrice de Cardi Awards are administered by the Society of Antiquaries of London. The grants are worth up to £15,000 for archaeological research on the United Arab Emirates, the Sultanate of Oman, Saudi Arabia, and the Pakistan province of Balochistan.

The deadline for applications is 15th January annually.
